Your opinion	The real concern as I see it is the influx of mainland Chinese wishing to come to live in Hong Kong. The government's projection that HK's population will start to decline by 2043 is questionable as more people from the mainland wish to live in Hong Kong's free and equitable society. We are witnessing the influx already. There is no question at all that these 'Brownfields' should be used first instead of requisitioning land and reclaiming the sea and other schemes the government is suggesting. Well done WWF I am right behind you!!! Your opinion	Our country parks were established by a far sighted HK government in the 1970's. Encroachment on them can never be reversed, and (no doubt despite the usual unconvincing protestations to the contrary by government and developers) any encroachment, however small, will inevitably open the door for further attacks. The present government for once needs to stand up to the construction lobby and maintain our country parks untouched, for the benefit of the community and future generations.

Your opinion	HK’s country parks are unique & allow our dense urban development while maintaining recreational access to sometimes rugged nature for all our citizens in few other cities of our scale is it possible to take public transport into the outdoors on day trip basis. This is an enormous advantage in attracting & retaining the educated professionals who underpin our economy, & in helping to develop healthy & dynamic young people, who will sustain that economy in the future. We should lead in Asia in conserving this advantage & in showing how urban regeneration, rather than outmoded land use models, can add value & liveability.

Your opinion	I do not believe there is a need to touch any green field sites. There appears to be no long term plan for the future of Hong Kong and its housing needs. Even in the short term there are brownfield sites and the ridiculous small house policy to be considered. We cannot just cover the whole of HK in concrete. Just seems like money for the property developers.

Your opinion	Brownfield sites should be the first option for housing development. Opening our country parks for development, however minor, seems to me as though it would be the first step on a path that would undo the amazing greening of Hong Kong that has occurred in the past decades. Let's not let greed and rampant development define our city!

Your opinion	增加土地開發是為普羅大眾建屋為目標，面積以實際可用空間去考量設計定位，除了基本廚廁之外，本人認為給予每人有約100尺的私人活動空間是必須的；不要只顧讓私人發展商用作豪華住宅單位用途（一人住仟尺）！這並不表示要用所有地去建公屋或納米單位，但起碼要平衡一下現時社會所需要的、所缺乏的安居。填海、佔用效野公園是得不償失的選擇，因為政府開發土地給私人發展商是幫不到實際需要，私人發展商以利為本，他們目標是買到最貴尺價為目標，這正正與政府目標絕對不同，所以無論填海或刪減綠化土地去建屋亦只是替發展商去製造資本！政府應多留些土地去興建資助房屋給最大多數的中下階層，現時這群民眾正面對需要而不能實現的需求……為求得到居所以被誘入發展商的多元化貸款計劃（高成數按揭貸款）這樣的進展為未來種下巨大的經濟危機。屆時政府除了要解決經濟困難、居所需求亦好大可能要面對氣候變化的影響；因為海岸線被收窄，樹木被伐掉令生態環境被嚴重破壞後，空氣質量還會好嗎？破壞生態是否真的幫到大家解決居住問題嗎？！

Your opinion	Also build multi storey lorry parks & container storage above the container terminals to release the presently abused land in the NT for housing purposes. If it is feasible to build housing above the terminals, notwithstanding the filthy pollution created thereby, it should be possible to build lorry parks instead. This would also lessen the number of trucks on the roads travelling to and from the terminals to the NT for parking.

Your opinionHong Kong has a huge opportunity to grow its value by enhancing its amazing nature. However if it continues to consider trashing natural areas for unnecessary development it will lose what makes it special. Other world cities like Singapore, San Francisco, Vancouver, Melbourne are increasing recognising the value of their natural lands. Hong Kong will lose out in the long run if it continues on the development only path. Crazy projects like the super incinerator on a pristine island in a marine Park and the East Lantau metropolis must be reconsidered if Hong Kong is going to stay special.

I urge the government to adopt a “brownfield first” policy to address short term housing problems.
I urge the government to safeguard the integrity of Hong Kong’s incredible country parks, to prevent irreversible damage to our natural areas.
I urge the government to safeguard vulnerable marine habitats and species by not reclaiming any ecologically sensitive areas.
I urge the government to formulate an agricultural land compensatory mechanism to release lands with good potential for rehabilitation if privately owned agricultural land with lower agricultural and ecological value is identified for development.

Secretariat,
Task Force on Land Supply
17F, West Wing, Central Government Offices,
2 Tim Mei Avenue, Tamar
Hong Kong

Dear Secretariat,:

I write to appeal to the task force on preserving HK's sporting, cultural and ecological heritage. In particular, the Hong Kong Golf Club (HKGC).

The HKGC in Fanling was constructed in 1911 and is a Grade II Heritage Building and the Pavilion in the Old Course was constructed in 1918 (also a Grade III Heritage Building). The club itself is the Oldest Golf Club in South East Asia and the second oldest in Asia (the oldest being The Royal Calcutta Golf Club also established in 1911 following the visit by King George V and Queen Mary) There are over 68 ancestral graves with many of them dating back to the Qing and Ming dynasties.

In addition to its long history, the site is an important green lung in the northern New Territories with over 74.2 hectares of Fanling courses comprising of dense woodland including secondary forests and many trees which are protected by HK Law and meet the Government's criteria of "Old and Valuable Trees". The club's total area contains a huge diversity of fauna including protected species of birds, insects, reptiles and other wildlife.

The HKGC hosts The Hong Kong Open each year and is HK's Oldest professional sporting event. In 2018, HKGC will host the 60th Edition of the Hong Kong Open which is co-sanctioned by the European and Asian PGA Tours and is one of only 2 professional tournaments in the world to have been hosted at the SAME venue for more than 50 years. A record attendance of over 48,000 spectators attended the 2017 Hong Kong Open including more than 10,000 International visitors. The Hong Kong Open is broadcasted WORLDWIDE to over 400mn households further putting Hong Kong firmly in the Global Sporting Map generating irreplaceable international marketing goodwill for Hong Kong for trade and tourism. The status and the benefits of the HK Open to HK is comparable to the Singapore F1 (known to be the only night city F1 event in the circuit) to Singapore. If it is ended it can never be replaced and HK's international status would suffer another body blow that can never be regained.

Secretariat,
18 September 2018

HKGC is opened to public from Monday to Friday throughout the year and the green fees charged is comparable to the only public golfing facilities in HK at Kau Sai Chau. In 2017 over 50,000 (42%) of the 120,000 rounds of golf were enjoyed by NON-Members of the Club.

HKGC has also been a key supporter of the HK Golf Association (HKGA) in grooming young talent by providing Free Access to the facilities to host its squad team training and amateur tournaments. In May 2018, the HKGC sponsored the Inaugural Inter-School Golf Tournament to help foster golfing competition amongst HK's secondary schools. HKGC also founded the Hong Kong Ladies Open and has hosted it in Fanling over the past 4 years. Playing in this tournament has enabled HK's talented young amateurs to earn World Ranking Points to help them to qualify for international events including The Olympic Games and this provides a springboard to launch them into the World Professional careers.

Over 200 non-member events including many Charitable Fund raising golf days are held every year at Fanling golf courses. More than HK$20mn is raised annually for a number of Charities including the Community Chest, the Tung Wah Group of Hospitals, the Yan Chai Hospitals and others.

HKGC's own annual flagship charity event called "the cup of kindness" was launched 30 years ago. The event raises funds every year for charities in the north District including the Northern district Hospital.

HKGC has historical, cultural and ecological value that helps Hong Kong attract international attention and admiration that is simply irreplaceable. HKGC and its community continues to help HK's younger generation to appreciate the game and provide resources to help them foster into world class sportsmen. The Club also provide anchoring support for charities that benefits local communities and HK in general.

Sincerely,

A black rectangular box redacting the signature of Michael LH Tsang.

Petition : Object Reclamation! Say No to East Lantau Metropolis!

I object reclamation, my reasons are as below:

- 1) Land reclamation causes irreversible damage to the natural environment and marine ecology, contrary to the principle of sustainable development.
- 2) The cost of the East Lantau Metropolis project reaches HK$500 billion, to be paid over generations (cost of environmental destruction yet to be included).
- 3) Adopting the 'Brown first, Green/Blue later'. Prioritizing development of brownfield lands, privilege lands (Fanling Golf Course, military land), lands of short-term lease, and vacant government lands. Invoking the Lands Resumption Ordinance to annex and re-plan farmlands held by developers.

Comment Don't do anything to further threaten the life of our white dolphins!

聯署訴求：我們反對填海 不要東大嶼都會

我們反對填海 不要東大嶼都會，因為：

1. 「填海造地」對自然環境及海洋生態做成不可逆轉的破壞，違反「可持續發展」的原則；
2. 「東大嶼都會」填海加基建的成本要接近5千億，世代找數，還未計沉重的環境成本的代價；
3. 落實「先棕後綠藍」的原則。優先發展棕地、收回特權用地(如粉嶺高爾夫球場、軍營用地)、短租及閒置官地、運用收回土地條例收回地產商囤積的農地重新規劃等。

為環境和動物發聲

聯署訴求：我們反對填海 不要東大嶼都會

我們反對填海 不要東大嶼都會，因為：

1. 「填海造地」對自然環境及海洋生態做成不可逆轉的破壞，違反「可持續發展」的原則；
2. 「東大嶼都會」填海加基建的成本要接近5千億，世代找數，還未計沉重的環境成本的代價；
3. 落實「先棕後綠藍」的原則。優先發展棕地、收回特權用地(如粉嶺高爾夫球場、軍營用地)、短租及閒置官地、運用收回土地條例收回地產商囤積的農地重新規劃等。

Public Consultation on Policy Review of Private Recreational Leases (PRLs) & Task Force on Land Supply

Dear Sir / Madam

RE: Public Consultation on Policy Review of Private Recreational Leases (PRLs) & Task Force on Land Supply

Private Sports Clubs continue to play a vital role in sporting development in Hong Kong. I am very concerned should there be any major policy changes that would make Hong Kong a less healthy and enjoyable place to live.

[REDACTED]

My membership and enjoyment of the club is something I have saved money for and paid for. If I am denied access to the club because it becomes unaffordable, then should we not ask other members of society to make a contribution as well? For example, those who own investment property or luxury flats could allow people who live in sub divided accommodation (cage dwellers) to use one of their bedrooms. Don't you think that targeting sports clubs is failing to address the true issues in Hong Kong?

Yours sincerely,

S J Baker

RE: Public Consultation on Policy Review of Private Recreational Leases (PRLs) & Task Force on Land Supply

Private Sports Clubs continue to play a vital role in sporting development in Hong Kong. I represent HKCC in one of their HKNA Division One Senior League netball teams. There is no other Club in Hong Kong for whom I would play. The ability of our players and coach is of an enviable standard of which I am incredibly proud. I am very concerned to learn that there could be major policy changes that could seriously alter future of netball at HKCC.

My views on the above two consultation papers are:

"Task Force on Land Supply": This is a ridiculous proposal. In a city where we are becoming increasingly concerned about the mental welfare of not only our professionals but our children. Depriving them of the opportunity to play sport and access green open space - two things that are scientifically proven to benefit our mental health - just doesn't make sense to me.

I understand housing availability may be an issue but I would like to be confident that the Government is address the quality and maintenance of existing housing stock before building more.

Thank you for considering my responses.

Dear Sir / Madam

RE: Public Consultation on Policy Review of Private Recreational Leases (PRLs) & Task Force on Land Supply

This letter is in support of the Hong Kong Cricket Club (HKCC). As a Hong Kong Resident, I am strongly against the redevelopment of the HKCC site for Housing or for the imposition of an unviable land premium. Whilst I recognize housing is a required human need, I believe that taking away recreational club land is not the answer to the housing issue.

Quality of life of a city, cannot be solely determined on the affordability of housing and availability of recreational facilities must also be considered, in order for the Hong Kong to retain its unique place as Asia's World City. The facilities provided are not solely for members with many contributions being provided to the public as well as members, for example through the organized cricketing leagues and through hundreds of schools utilizing the facilities.

Additionally, the club provides facilities for the national cricket teams to train on a regular basis. Cricket is often an overlooked sport in Hong Kong, however, it is arguably the most successful sport of the SAR. HKCC is one of three grounds with essential facilities to play fully-fledged cricket matches and has been the host of many domestic and international tournaments. Taking this facility away could determent the future success of the sport in Hong Kong and compromise the employment of athletes representing Hong Kong and the recreational enjoyment of amateur players in the city. I am sure that the government's intentions are not to unequally prioritize citizen's requirements

In 2014, I was fortunate to be one of many individuals to be provided with a junior sporting membership based on my cricketing performance. The junior sporting membership provided me with a platform to improve my cricket by providing access to high-quality training and free strength and conditioning training. This enabled me to pursue a place in the Hong Kong National Side for my age group and the Men's "A" squad for the years after my membership. I hope that by retaining the services of HKCC will allow for such opportunities to be provided to juniors such as myself so that they can pursue their passion and continue to feel fulfilled, which in my opinion is a true metric for quality of life.

HKCC among other clubs is a hub for employment whereby several hundred people are employed and providing income. Redeveloping clubs for housing will result in hundreds of people losing their income. Housing is not free and still requires a considerable proportion of individuals incomes. Therefore, the loss of employment for the development of land for properties is counterintuitive given this results in hundreds of people will lose their incomes and can't afford housing.

I believe there are a lot of other options such as reclamation and redevelopment of brownfield sites for the government to consider to solve the housing problem. Redeveloping HKCC should not be one of them.

As a Hong Kong Resident, I would like to voice my firm opposition to redevelop the HKCC site for housing.

Thank you,

Sincerely,

Mulchandani Ravi Narayan

Others: Please stop letting land developers in the New Territories hold land. This would then provide ample land to develop, rather than taking away land from sports clubs that are supporting youth programs and allowing children to have a healthy space in order to play and learn sport (which is vital for healthy child development).

Private Sports Clubs to play a vital role in sporting development in Hong Kong and I am very concerned should there be any major policy changes that could negatively impact on their ability to continue to do so.

I agree that the HAB should support existing PRL lessees that may have operational needs for additional sites in order to support sports development needs, increase the provision of sports and recreational facilities or provide those that are not yet available in Hong Kong, under fully justifiable circumstances.

Land Supply:

I do not support the use of PRL land for housing as proposed on the Task Force on Land Supply public consultation.

RE: Public Consultation on Policy Review of Private Recreational Leases (PRLs) & Task Force on Land Supply

Private Sports Clubs (PSCs) continue to play a vital role in sporting development in Hong Kong. I am very concerned should there be any major policy changes that could seriously alter the scene. Typically, PSCs are non-profit organisations that will not be able to adapt quickly to these changes. I would imagine that most PSCs will end up shutting down as a result and those that survived evolving into private clubs for the rich and the elite, exactly the outcome that these changes are supposed to overcome.

My views on the above two consultation papers are:

[REDACTED]

"Task Force on Land Supply": I do not believe the myriad of opinions accumulated from the consultation will make any decision clearer or easier. It is important that the decision, when taken, does not sacrifice the future well-being of Hong Kong for short term instant gratification of increasing land supply for its own sake. Much like the adage "work-life balance", the services PSCs provide are akin to the "life" against which "work" is balanced.

Take away the PSCs, Hong Kong is likely to have no “life” (as such) to balance “work” with. Hong Kong will develop into a densely populated metropolis not unlike the bleak dystopias often portrayed in sci-fi stories. A little extreme perhaps but one step in that direction.

Thank you for considering my responses.

Dear Madam, Sir

As an active sports person I have been following the discussions around the new proposed schemes for private sporting clubs over the last months. I am a member of the Hong Kong Cricket Club since 1991 and a member of the South China Athletics Association and Little Sai Wan Golf Society (using the facilities of the Hong Kong Golf Club in Fanling) since 2015. I play sports in many of Hong Kong's sporting facilities, both private and public. The membership fees I pay to private sports clubs and for the use of public facilities are already significantly over and above the fees I would pay for the equivalent in other countries.

I am also a tenant in apartment owned by a Hong Kong property developer and am paying rent at about 7 times the amount I would be paying in a similar location and for a similar quality apartment in the outskirts of a major European city. My mother in law lives in Public Housing under the home ownership scheme in Hong Kong. I have been a (on and off) resident in Hong Kong since 1986 and have been living in Hong Kong again permanently since 2008.

The current proposals around the future of private sports clubs will not have any of the desired published outcomes, in my humble opinion.

1. Will the re-use of land currently occupied by PRLs alleviate the housing shortage in Hong Kong?

Hong Kong undoubtedly suffers from a housing shortage and unacceptably high property prices and rents. There are four main reasons for this, besides low interest rates:

1.1. Population Growth through immigration

The population in Hong Kong has grown significantly over the past decades and is forecast to grow further until it levels off in about 2030. Far more than 50% of this growth in population is through net movement, meaning immigration. At the same time, Hong Kong's birth rate is far below the replacement rate. The vast majority of the net movement has its origin in people who were born on Mainland China. Today, over 2m HK residents have been born in China, with an increase of about 50k p.a., where the indigenous HK population only grows by under 60k p.a. Given that virtually all of the immigrants from other countries require housing at the time they immigrate to Hong Kong, this puts intense pressure on the housing market, in particular for people born and raised in Hong Kong who want to move out of their parents home.

<http://worldpopulationreview.com/countries/hong-kong-population/>

<https://www.censtatd.gov.hk/hkstat/sub/gender/demographic/index.jsp>)

1.2 Government policy

When I first came to Hong Kong in 1986 and met my Hong Kong Chinese wife, Hong Kong was lauded around the world for its public housing scheme and indeed, my mother in law and my sister in law had the possibility to avail of this. At the time, whilst (private) house prices in Hong Kong were already high, a large portion of Hong Kongers was not affected by these high property prices. Over time, the portion of people living in public housing has decreased considerably and over the last 10 years the stock of public housing has only increased by 100k flats or 10%. Over the same time, the number of applicants has doubled and the prices for apartments have tripled.

(references:

It is not too long ago that the government of Hong Kong withdrew a tender for the sale of land because offers by developers were too low. Given the above facts I felt more than sad at the time. If the government has the interest of its people in mind, it will not let this happen but instead sell to the highest bidder and ensure that affordable housing is being built or preferably public housing if the commercial value of the land is deemed too low.

1.3. Commercial Interests of Property Developers

The growing population as a result of immigration coupled with the lack of public housing development in the SAR and the limited land made available by the government has resulted in very favorable market conditions for property developers, large and small. There is a significant interest of these companies to identify prime land for future development of property in attractive parts of Hong Kong which have the prospect of high yields, mostly not to the benefit of future home owners or tenants. Over the past 20 years, property developers have benefitted hugely from Hong Kong's macro economic development. However, this has not resulted in a better and more affordable living environment for Hong Kong people. Indeed, many property developers hold large stocks of apartments which are either idle or are let by these developers, thus benefitting further from the shortage of land. 50% of Hong Kong's richest people have made their fortune predominantly through real estate. (reference: <https://www.forbes.com/hong-kong-billionaires/list/#tab:overall>)

1.4. Property Speculation as a result of government policy

As a result of the shortages created through the above, there is a very high degree of property speculation in Hong Kong, both by companies and private individuals. As a result, a considerable number of dwellings are kept empty until a more favorable selling price can be achieved. With house price inflation above 10%, a rental yield of around 3% will not make it worthwhile for investors to let their apartments and potentially forfeit the opportunity to sell to a buyer who is looking for an uninhabited property. Whilst exact numbers of empty flats are not publicly available in Hong Kong, the two electricity companies will be able to give statistics on how many of the apartments that are connected to the grid do not draw electricity at the level of a household for a period of longer than one month. I would expect this to be around 7.5% of all Hong Kong dwellings, around double the published figures.

In summary:

Undoubtedly, there is too little land available today for affordable housing. However, the cause of this is not the usage of such land by PRLs. In fact, many of the PRLs are on land that has been specifically designated for usage by sports facilities and not for residential housing. In addition, many of the sites which are occupied by PRLs would either be too small for large scale development of affordable housing and/or would warrant land prices which would prohibit the building of affordable housing. As a result, if such land were redeployed for residential development, it would most likely result in the development of more luxury housing, which is unaffordable for the vast majority of people in need. As such, one of the main arguments listed under 1.3 of the consultation paper Review on Policy of PRLs needs to be questioned. The goal of providing more land for affordable housing is correct. Other available land banks or the reclamation of new land such as in Tseung Kwan O/Hang Hau is more likely to be the right answer for this need.

2. Is there a shortage of sporting facilities in Hong Kong? How does Hong Kong rank globally and in the region in terms of the development of sports?

2.1. Availability of sporting facilities in Hong Kong

As mentioned previously, I am a member of a number of sports clubs and societies and use private and public facilities such as the Hong Kong Squash Center or Kau Sai Chau as well as public sporting facilities quite regularly. As in every city in the world, there is a shortage of facilities during the peak hours in the evening, say 5pm to 8pm and on weekends, usually between 10am and 6pm. However, the average usage of sporting facilities in Hong Kong is probably below 50%. In other countries sporting facilities of schools occupying and leasing public land are opened up to sports societies to alleviate the shortage during peak hours. In fact, many of the sports clubs in Europe do not even have their own sporting facilities but entirely rely on the usage of school sporting facilities which they rent for a nominal fee. Given that school usually ends before 5pm, such sporting facilities of schools in Hong Kong are available during the peak hours of practise and competition for sports clubs and societies.

Anecdotally, I was a member of the table tennis section of my club in a small town in Germany during my childhood and teens. We used the gym of one of the primary schools as our base and when we went out to play other table tennis teams or players in leagues or competitions, they were all using similar facilities. I became reasonably successful as a table tennis player and when I moved to Hong Kong first in 1986, I was given the opportunity to practise with members of the Hong Kong National Team and the National Youth Team. At the time, the National Team was practising in a small high floor apartment or commercial building in Wanchai that could house only 4 table tennis tables with insufficient space beside and behind the tables and a far too low ceiling height. The Youth Team was able to use the Shatin gym of what I believe was the Chinese University or a school. I was appalled to see under what conditions the HK team had to practise and whilst I do not play table tennis myself anymore, I understand that until today there is no proper table tennis league in Hong Kong. This is solely due to the fact that there are insufficient gym facilities, both at private clubs and in public or semi private facilities. Almost none of the PRLs would have proper facilities for table tennis aside from squash courts. In my home country, school sporting facilities are used by private 'clubs' and societies for table tennis, badminton, handball, volleyball, basketball, soccer, fitness, yoga, martial arts, aquatics, athletics, archery, fencing, hockey and many more, thus providing low cost space to clubs and societies to develop sporting talent. Since these schools are mostly located close to residential areas, these facilities could be used far more extensively than they are today, thus providing sufficient space for practise and competitions during peak hours.

2.2 Development of Sports in Hong Kong

It is without doubt that Hong Kong is 'boxing far below its weight' in terms of sporting success. Countries with a far smaller population and lower GDP fare significantly better at for example Olympic Games than Hong Kong. It is without doubt that the PRLs in Hong Kong have a significant positive impact on the development of young people's sporting abilities. This is the case for the Hong Kong Cricket Club as well as the Hong Kong Golf Club. The funds made available to these clubs through membership fees help to support sports development programmes through professional coaches and adequate facilities far beyond their own membership base. In fact, most clubs do not only allow non members to use the sporting facilities on a regular basis and to practice and compete alongside members but offer sporting memberships at nominal fees to talented boys and girls, women and men. Details will have been obtained through the submissions of the clubs themselves. It is unfortunate, that the the question how PRLs can be better utilized almost only centers around the commercial and financial aspects of the land and not around the quality of sportsmanship in Hong Kong and how PRLs can be both supported and made better use of in developing Hong Kong into a world class sports city.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/All-time_Olympic_Games_medal_table

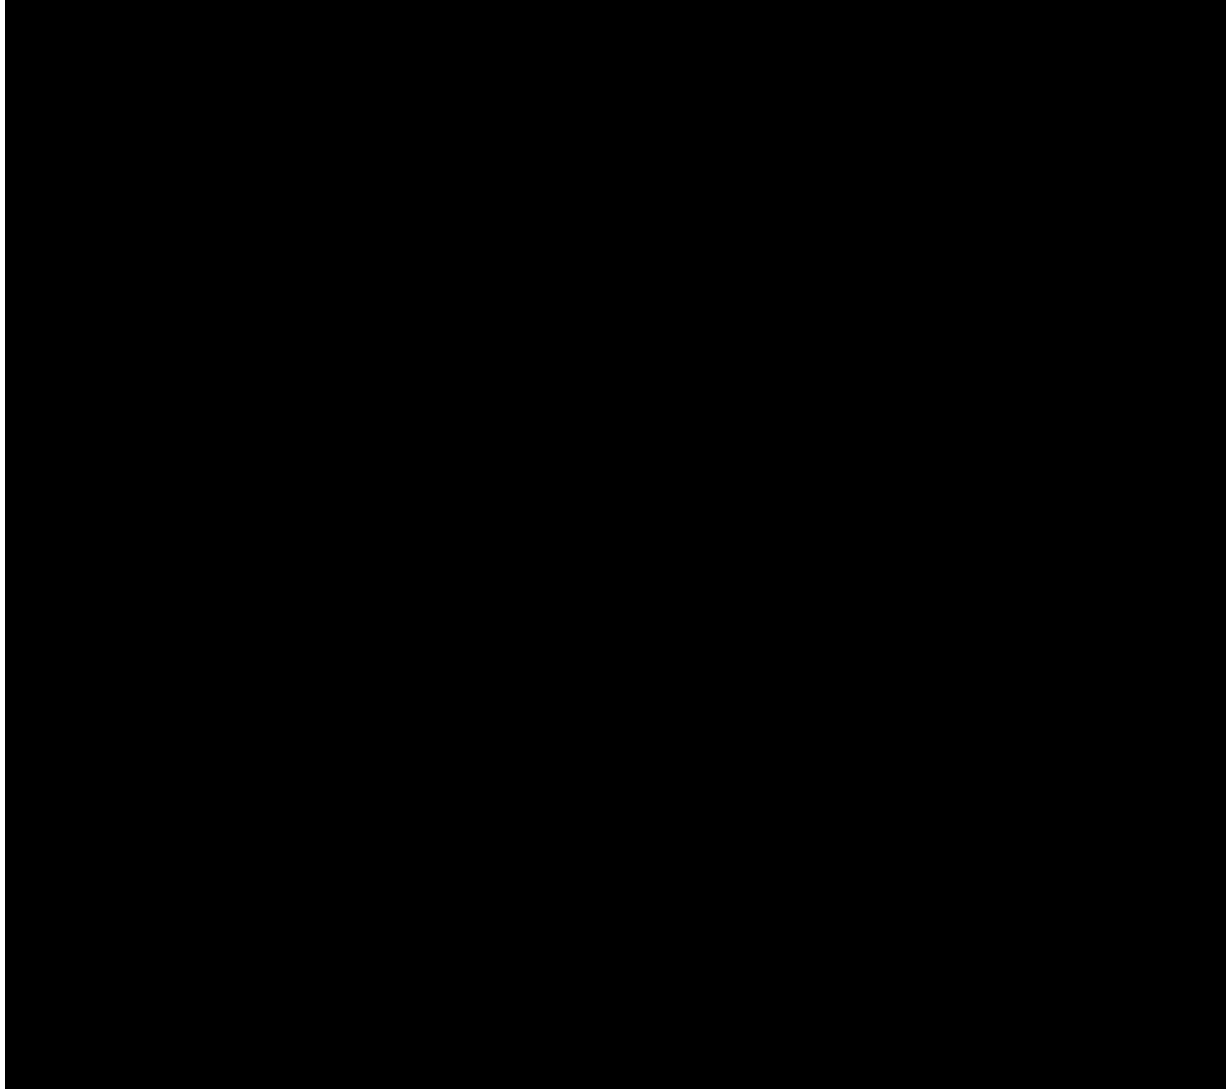

In the club I use most, the Hong Kong Cricket Club, we proudly and regularly host athletes from many organizations and societies, in fact our facilities are used by more than 30% of the time by athletes who are not members of our club. As athletes and members of the club we go out of our way to make these friends feel welcome at our club. We host international delegations of other countries in many different sports and make them feel welcome in Hong Kong. Especially but not only in Cricket we are one of the favorite go to clubs for people from Hong Kong and abroad. When Hong Kong hosts the Squash Open, our members open up their homes to visiting athletes who could otherwise not afford to pay for their trip to this expensive city. It is very unfortunate that the government has allowed the public perception to develop in a direction where we as members and fellow athletes are discredited.

In summary, Hong Kong needs to make better use of its existing sporting facilities beyond the PRLs, assign more government funds for professional coaches and a dedicated program in conjunction with the PRLs to put sports on top of Hong Kong's social agenda. Should the number of private sporting clubs which provide their facilities and coaches to a large base of athletes far beyond their own membership base diminish as a result of the current agenda, I fear that Hong Kong would slip significantly as a sports country from an already low base.

The Hong Kong Golf Club in Fanling deserves a special mention here as this is where the debate started. Since decades, Fanling hosts the only world class sports event in Hong Kong besides the Rugby Sevens and the Squash Open. It was part of the Beijing Olympics and is a valuable 'green cell' in our overcrowded city. Over 50% of all rounds of golf are played by non-members and the club is always open to hosting special events and societies. I do not need to comment on the excessive financial burden of preparing the road and water infrastructure to accommodate a large scale housing development on all or parts of this site. This has been commented on extensively by far more qualified people. I would like to point out, however, that the small city of Singapore which competes with Hong Kong in many aspects is able to provide 15 golf courses to its inhabitants. It is already hugely embarrassing that Hong Kong currently only has 9 golf courses. Reducing this number further will certainly not make the sport more affordable, let alone contribute to the loss of Hong Kong's image as a World City.

4. Summary

To me it appears that the Hong Kong Government has been maneuvered into an unresolvable situation by people with solely commercial property interests. The public debate has been steered in a direction where most Hong Kong people believe that few rich people in private clubs monopolize land which the government gives to them free of charge instead of developing homes for people in need. As a result, the task force has come up with a proposal which succumbs to these views, where all alternatives will ultimately result in a closure of Hong Kong's best sporting facilities.

It is certainly not the fault of PRLs that there is a scarcity of land in Hong Kong, that the government has largely failed in providing sufficient affordable housing to its population and that scrupulous property developers are masters at their game. The proposals put forward will result in the Hong Kong government having to subsidize all of its sporting facilities over time or give them up. The latter will happen and this is what property developers are waiting for. In the end, Hong Kong will not have more affordable housing and less sporting facilities. The public outcry will be even larger once this happens.

I am more than happy to support the government free of charge in finding a workable solution which caters to all or most achievable goals. This does, however, not include adding to the wealth of property developers at the expense of athletes and ordinary people of Hong Kong.

Yours sincerely

Public Consultation on Policy Review of Private Recreational Leases (PRLs) & Task Force on Land Supply

Dear Sir / Madam,

RE: Public Consultation on Policy Review of Private Recreational Leases (PRLs) & Task Force on Land Supply

Private Sports Clubs (PSCs) continue to play a vital role in sporting development and other recreational activities in Hong Kong. I am very concerned should there be any major policy changes that could seriously have an impact on this.

PSCs facilitate sport development, health and fitness, a competitive league across various disciplines, and employment opportunities for many local Hong Kongers.

My views on the above two consultation papers are:

"Task Force on Land Supply":

The significant changes suggested would be to the detriment of youth and sporting development in Hong Kong and its communities. The Land Supply issue is a prevalent one in Hong Kong, however, this would be a case of trying to amend one problem while creating an entirely new one. Therefore, it would be sensible to find solutions for the land supply issue through alternative avenues that would yield an overall better outcome for all Hong Kong residents.

Others:

Sport has always been an incredible vehicle for bringing together people of different cultures, providing them with a common ground, and facilitating youth development and keeping them away from detrimental pathways (such a as crime and drug abuse). Hong Kong should continue to encourage interest and development of sport through PSCs to maximize the most positive outcome for both youth development and enjoyment for other Hong Kong residents through its recreational activities provided.

Thank you for considering my responses.

Yours sincerely,

Toni Leach

RE: Public Consultation on Policy Review of Private Recreational Leases
(PRLs) & Task Force on Land Supply

Private Sports Clubs continue to play a vital role in sporting development in Hong Kong. I am very concerned should there be any major policy changes that could seriously alter the contribution made by these clubs to Hong Kong.

My views on the above two consultation papers are:

[REDACTED]

"Task Force on Land Supply": It is appreciated that the Government needs to look to provide new , additional housing for the future. For many people the ability to own property here is out of reach. Opening up areas such as North and East of Lantau and further land reclamation would seem to be far more reaching & long term policies. Parcelling up little pieces of land that are already used beneficially , often in areas where lifestyle is both expensive and crowded already, to develop minimal housing, would not seem to alleviate the issues on going . New areas to be considered should facilitate affordable housing and the development of thriving communities and public services to improve the infra structure within Hong Kong as a world renowned city.

Others: We are constantly bombarded worldwide with public data that tells us that we need to balance our lifestyles with exercise , especially young people ,sporting facilities help individuals to this. I think it would be a tragedy to see our existing facilities removed or for them to become only for the very wealthy.

Sporting memberships and the inclusion of non member activities that already exist in our clubs support the community and are an international attraction to working and living in Hong Kong.

Thank you for considering my responses.

Yours sincerely,

Bridget Anne Foster
