Question:

Measures to Control Building Height

Members including Hon Frederick FUNG, Hon James TO, Dr Hon Priscilla LEUNG and Hon Alan LEONG have expressed grave concern about poor town planning and building control giving rise to a controversial residential development project near Phase 8 of Mei Foo Sun Chuen. Members have urged the Administration to consider suggestions, such as the provision of land exchange, to resolve the problem. The Administration has agreed to provide a written response to address members' concerns.

Reply:

The residential development concerned (the development) is at Lots NKML 25 R.P. and NKML 25 S.B (the site). According to the lease conditions, the site can be used for non-industrial uses which include residential use. The site falls within the Lai Chi Kok Outline Zoning Plan and has been zoned "Residential (Group A)" since 1985 under the Town Planning Ordinance (Cap. 131). The Building Authority has approved the general building plan and the commencement of foundation works for the development in accordance with the Buildings Ordinance (Cap. 123) (BO).

Non-in-situ land exchanges are considered by the Executive Council only when there are special circumstances with full policy justification and support, and it is in the overall public interest. The development is compliant with the use permissible under the lease conditions and with the statutory zoning, and approval for the general building plan and the commencement of foundation works has been granted under the BO. There are no special circumstances which warrants the Government's interference with private property rights and any suggested non-in-situ land exchange with the owner to address some local resistance to the development cannot be justified.

According to the approved building plan, one block of 20-storey building will be built at the site and its height will be similar to the buildings of Phase 8 of Mei Foo Sun Chuen next to the site.

As background information, NKML 25 R.P. was once used to accommodate a liquefied petroleum gas storage plant. In the light of public concerns over its proximity to Phase 8 of Mei Foo Sun Chuen, the Government explored the option of land exchange with the owner for relocating the facility but the owner subsequently relocated the facility in 1999 on its own volition.

Question:

Follow-up on Reply Serial No. DEVB(PL)045.

The Government has indicated in the reply that since the implementation of the Land (Compulsory Sale for Redevelopment) Ordinance, the Lands Tribunal has promulgated a practice direction. The Government expects that the pilot mediation scheme will receive its clients soon. However, if mediation fails, adjudication from the Lands Tribunal may be needed. Minority owners, especially elderly owners, would find it particularly difficult to argue with big developers and to provide data on the assessed market value of their properties. Will the Government consider rendering professional assistance to these owners, for example through the Pilot Scheme on Outreach Support Service for Elderly Owners to help to provide them with information on the assessed market value of their properties, and referring them to the Legal Aid Department (LAD) to receive legal aid for Lands Tribunal proceedings, just as LAD provides legal aid for Mental Health Review Tribunal cases and certain cases in the Coroner's Court?

Asked by: Hon TO Kun-sun, James

Reply:

Under the Pilot Scheme on Outreach Support Service for Elderly Owners launched since January this year, social workers proactively approach elderly building owners who may be involved with applications for compulsory sale for redevelopment to offer them with the assistance that they require. The work includes getting the information they ask for and referring them to professionals, such as surveyors, for advice and service. Legal aid does not currently cover cases of compulsory sale for redevelopment applications.

Question:

According to Reply Serial No. DEVB(PL)070, regarding the pilot mediation scheme under the Land (Compulsory Sale for Redevelopment) (Specification of Lower Percentage) Notice, the Administration has indicated that the Executive Committee of the Real Estate Developers Association of Hong Kong has confirmed that it is agreeable to paying for the minority owners' share of the mediator fees for cases where these minority owners are not eligible for the Government's financial assistance. Is there a ceiling on the payment for the share of the mediator fees?

Asked by: Hon. WONG Kwok-hing

Reply:

The Executive Committee of the Real Estate Developers Association of Hong Kong (REDA) has confirmed its agreement that member companies of REDA will, in cases where they are involved, pay for the share of the mediator's fee of the minority owner joining the Pilot Mediation Scheme when the minority owner is not eligible for the Government's financial assistance. The mediator's fee under the Pilot Mediation Scheme is set at $3,000 per hour and the number of hours is capped at 15. The mediator's fee is to be paid in equal shares by the two parties involved. Therefore, the minority owner's share of the mediator's fee for each case under the Pilot Mediation Scheme will be $22,500 ($3,000 x 15 / 2) at the maximum.

Question:

Follow-up to Reply Serial No. DEVB(PL)100

In the reply, the Government stated that the web-based system for retrieval and viewing of the minor works records had been launched at the end of last year, but fees were charged for using the system to retrieve and view the records. What are the details of the fees? Will the Government consider allowing the public to view certain information in the system free of charge, especially the information that can help owners or owners' corporations to better understand the carrying out of repair and maintenance of minor works? The estimated operation cost for the system is only $0.3 million per year, will the Government consider taking up the cost as government expenditure so as to increase the transparency of the Government?

Asked by: Hon. TO Kun-sun, James

Reply:

The fees for viewing and copying of building records maintained by the Buildings Department (BD) are prescribed in regulation 42 of the Building (Administration) Regulations (Cap 123 sub. leg. A). The relevant prescribed fees for viewing and copying of minor works records through the web-based system are as follows<sup>1</sup>:-

- (a) Viewing of building records $36 per file<sup>2</sup>
- (b) Certified copy of a plan $42 per copy
- (c) Non-certified copy of a plan $24 per copy
- (d) Certified copy of a document $8 per copy
- (e) Non-certified copy of a document $1.4 per copy

The latest full fee schedule, including the fees for viewing and copying minor works and other building records in paper and microfilm formats, can be found on the BD's website (http://www.bd.gov.hk/english/services/index_support4.html).

In general, all fees and charges under the BD will follow the user-pay principle which is applicable to the provision of Government services. Users of the web-based system are required to pay the prescribed fees in accordance with the above principle on a full cost recovery basis.

The system keeps records of the completed minor works which are available for viewing and copying by members of the public. To help individual owners and owners' corporations to better understand the conduct of repair and maintenance works, relevant pamphlets, guidelines, practice notes, registers of building professionals and contractors are currently available for viewing and download free of charge from the BD's website (http://www.bd.gov.hk).

Director of Bureau: Secretary for Development

Question:

In Reply Serial No. DEVB(PL)128, the Administration stated that the existing staff of the Existing Buildings Divisions of the Buildings Department had been monitoring the outsourced consultants' work. What was the expenditure required for the monitoring of the outsourced consultants? Why didn't the Administration stop using the outsourced consultancy service and the Buildings Department handle the work directly instead?

Asked by: Hon. WONG Kwok-hing

Reply:

Monitoring of the work of the Buildings Department (BD)'s outsourced consultants, including that of the outsourced consultants for the one-off special operation on abandoned/dangerous signboards, is handled by the existing resources of 477 professional and technical staff of the Existing Buildings Divisions of the BD as part of the Divisions' overall duties to implement the Department's building safety and maintenance enforcement programme. It is not possible to provide a breakdown of the expenditure solely for monitoring the outsourced consultants' work for the one-off special operation on abandoned/dangerous signboards.

The one-off special operation to identify abandoned/dangerous signboards for enforcement action launched in August 2010 involves comprehensive planned surveys in the territory and subsequent enforcement action. Having taken into account the nature of the work involved, the BD has engaged private sector consultants to carry out the non-statutory work in respect of the special operation, such as carrying out of survey and inspection of abandoned/dangerous signboards before and after the BD's issue of statutory notices, with a view to maximising the overall cost effectiveness of the Department's enforcement actions and flexibility in the Department's staff deployment in the special operation.

It is stated in the Government's reply that an estimated total of 18 448 flats would be produced from a total of 30 residential sites disposed of through government land sales, private treaty grants, lease modifications and land exchanges in 2010. However, according to the figures provided in the Government's reply to the Legislative Council Question No.16 on 9 March 2011, it was estimated that in 2010 a total of 17 900 flats would be produced through the Application List, lease modifications/land exchanges, private treaty grants made to the Urban Renewal Authority and the Mass Transit Railway Corporation Limited and the private redevelopment projects not subject to lease modifications. Why is there a difference of over 500 between them?

Asked by: Hon. LEE Wing-tat

Reply:

As we have stated in Reply Serial No. DEVB(PL)159, a total of 30 residential sites were disposed of through government land sales, private treaty grants, lease modifications and land exchanges in 2010. We estimate that these 30 sites would produce a total of 18 448 flats. However, this is an overall estimate taking into account the development density or estimated development density permissible for the sites. The actual flat number that may be produced from each of the sites depends on the design of the proposed development to be implemented by the developer.

It is stated in the Government's reply that there are a total number of 4 918 short term tenancies (STTs) currently administered by the Lands Department and, among them, 2 716 have been held by the same tenant for ten years or more. Will the Government inform this Committee how many of these STTs have been held for 15 years or more, and how many for 20 years or more? Regarding the 4 577 STTs let by direct grant, how many of them were let to non-profit-making organisations, public bodies, and private persons or organisations respectively; and how many were let for private residential use?

Reply:

Of the 2 716 short term tenancies (STTs) held by the same tenant for ten years or more, 1 542 STTs have been held for 20 years or more with the remaining 1 174 STTs held for ten years or more but less than 20 years, but we do not have a breakdown of STTs held for 15 years or more. Of the total of 4 577 STTs let by direct grant, 494 STTs are granted to non-profit making organisations, 354 STTs to public bodies and 3 729 STTs to private persons or organisations. There are 178 STTs granted for domestic use.
